Wayne County Wants Community Members to RAP with NAP for the second year

October 2007 — The Wayne County Nuisance Abatement Program (NAP) is hosting its second annual RAP with NAP forum for the community. NAP is focused on rehabilitating abandoned and blighted properties in Wayne County. This year they are focusing on the theme of "Building Opportunities for Success" where they will be highlighting success stories regarding the efforts to create and maintain clean and safe neighborhoods. "We want to commend our residents for turning blight into beauty," said Wayne County Executive Robert Ficano. "We have several success stories and important information for community members concerned about abandoned homes and blighted areas."

The NAP program administrators will be awarding several Wayne County residents the "Wayne County Community Renaissance Award" for completing rehabilitation projects on their formerly blighted properties that were targeted by NAP lawsuits. This year's program will include an informative power point presentation, numerous speakers, helpful tips on keeping vacant houses secure and a forum for audience participation. Food and beverages will be provided. For more information contact regarding the NAP program call Michael D. Russell at (313) 967-2203.
