Executive Ficano congratulates Detroit Renaissance on new name, new plan

Wayne County — As they celebrate 40 years of leadership to accelerate growth in this region, Wayne County Executive Robert Ficano commends The Detroit Renaissance on making necessary changes to the organization that enables them to continue being the force that helps move the region and State forward.

“Detroit Renaissance has done a tremendous job representing the vision of the region’s top executive leaders,” said Executive Ficano. “It takes visionaries and true leaders to make tough decisions and needed changes that reflect current situations and garner success in the future. I am sure there will not be 100% agreement on all proposals, but it is vital we work together to bring a better business climate to Michigan.”
