Homeland Security forum draws crowd

More than 100 local residents turned out for Wayne County Commissioner Tim Killeen’s (D-Detroit) homeland security forum on March 7 at the Grosse Pointe War Memorial.

“The forum updated citizens about regular patrols along the waterfront as well as new technology such as high resolution cameras and radar that is being deployed to protect our shorelines,” Commissioner Killeen said.

Pictured above (from the left) are panelists Gregory Lambert of the U.S Border Patrol; CDR Lisa A. Ragone of the U.C. Coast Guard; Al Shenouoda of the U.S. Department of Homeland Security; Commissioner Killeen; and James Buford, director of the Wayne County Department of Homeland Security and Emergency Management.

- END -