Chair Bell advised all to stand to recite the Pledge of Allegiance.

INVOCATION

Chair Bell called upon Commissioner Varga, who provided the invocation:

“Thank you and good morning, everyone. Let’s bow our heads.

Dear God, Thank you for waking us up this morning, bringing us safely to our place where we do the people's work. Thank you for the blessings you give us each and every day. We pray for the ones who are hurting, the hungry, the misunderstood, the mentally challenged and those struggling to live another day. Today, I lift up in prayer those who lost loved ones and may the memory sustain them in the coming days, months and years. I pray for my husband and his family, as Bill's brother was called home after a long illness.

Dear God, more than ever, please show us wisdom in working in unity that will please you. Give us strength to do what we must as our responsibility is great and the trust people placed into our hands must always be in accord with your will. I ask to put your hands on those who come before the Wayne County Commission with an open mind that we must all work together and if we must disagree honorably and to understand the meaning behind the oath of office elected officials take to uphold the Constitution of the State of Michigan and the Wayne County Charter.

Dear God, protect us from speaking and doing what sounds good, but rather do what is right and just for all the people of Wayne County without exception. Bless our families, our friends, those gathered here with us today. Let us strive to forgive those who stand in our way just because they can. Help us put our ego in check, so we may serve the people of Wayne County as their unselfish servants. God, we understand that we have been given this day, this moment as I always say, 'it's a present.' We thank you. Let us strive to live it so when our days here are done, we can say to each of us, you can say to each of us, well done my child, well done. Amen.”
